If Saudi Arabia normalizes relations with Israel, it would conform to the prophecy of a pre-Messiah reconciliation between Isaac and Ishmael based on the verse in Genesis in which Ishmael and Isaac come together at Abraham's funeral.

"And Yitzchak and Ishmael, his sons, buried him in the cave of Machpelah, in the field of Ephron, the son of Zohar the Hittite, which is before Mamre." Genesis 25:9

Rabbi Shlomo Yitzchaki, the preeminent medieval French commentator on the Torah known by the acronym Rashi, interprets this verse to mean that Ishmael made peace with Isaac, allowing his younger half-brother to precede him at the funeral.

The Talmud in Baba Batra (16b) predicts this will have implications for the end of days.

The Talmud relates that Ishmael and Yitzchak will have a tenuous relationship.

Still, at the end of days, they will come together as 'banav' (his sons).

Saudi Arabians consider themselves to be the Sons of Ishmael, and the prophecy can very well be speaking about them.
