Isaac & Ishmael – Israel/UAE/Bahrain

Israel365 feature articles reporter Adam Eliyahu Berkowitz was asked during the broadcast what he saw as the prophetic implications of the Abraham Accords.

“It’s all Biblical,” Berkowitz said. “This is not only a hugely historic event but it is also incredibly prophetic. We’re seeing a period of peace focused on Jerusalem, the city of peace.

This was the condition that preceded the building of Solomon’s Temple. He built the First Temple out of peace and not out of war.”

Isaac & Ishmael – Israel/UAE/Bahrain

Berkowitz also noted that according to Jewish tradition, the Bnei Yishmael (sons of Ishmael) are destined to repent in the end of days. He cited a verse in Genesis.

His sons Yitzchak and Ishmael buried him in the cave
Of Machpelah, in the field of Ephron son of Zohar the Hittite,

Isaac & Ishmael – Israel/UAE/Bahrain

“We are seeing a reconciliation between Yishmael and Isaac,” Berkowitz said. He explained that according to Jewish tradition, Ishmael should have gone first since he is the older brother. By allowing him to go first, Ishmael is acknowledging the spiritual superiority of Isaac. “The Abraham Accords is not peace,” Berkowitz noted. It is normalization. It is a meeting of brothers, as in the prophecy, with the Arabs recognizing the worth of Isaac.”

after you; and your land shall be desolate

“The Innocents Abroad”

We traversed some miles of desolate country whose soil is rich enough, but is given over wholly to weeds—a silent, mournful expanse, wherein we saw only three persons—Arabs

It is a hopeless, dreary, heart-broken land.

Palestine is desolate and unlovely.

And why should it be otherwise?

Can the curse of the Deity beautify a land?

“In the twelve and a half centuries between the Arab conquest in the seventh century And the beginnings of the Jewish return in the 1880’s, Palestine was laid waste. Its ancient canal and irrigation systems were destroyed and the wondrous fertility of which the Bible spoke vanished into desert and desolation.”

Had the Jews lost the war, their territory would not have been handed over to the Palestinian Arabs. Rather, it would have been divided among the invading Arab forces, for the simple reason that none of the region's Arab regimes viewed Palestine as a distinct entity and most of them had their own designs on this territory.

In a sermon on Friday, [10/9/20] Sheikh Ekrima Sa'id Sabri, the former Grand Mufti of Jerusalem appointed by Yasser Arafat and the current head of the Temple Mount Islamic council, warned that Israel has been successful in marketing the “Zionist narrative” that the Al Aqsa Mosque is situated on land that was once part of the Jewish Temple. Sabri warned that Israel had succeeded in persuading some Arab leaders to accept the “Zionist narrative” of Jewish Temples once standing on the Temple Mount. Sabri claimed that it was this false narrative that led to the normalization of relations between the United Arab Emirates and Bahrain with Israel.

Dr. Mordechai Kedar, a senior lecturer in the Department of Arabic at Bar-Ilan University, unpacked Sabri's comments, noting the tenuous connection between Islam and the Temple Mount. Dr. Kedar explained that the Abraham Accords did not refer to Jerusalem at all, and this is hugely problematic for the Palestinian leadership. "The Jerusalem issue is much less important to the Gulf States, which is a matter of enormous concern for Sheikh Sabri," Dr. Kedar explained. "Jerusalem and the Temple Mount are at the epicenter of the Palestinian story. Without Jerusalem and Al Aqsa, the Palestinian issue has almost no meaning. It is like whiskers without a cat.

This is why they keep repeating the allegation that the Jews have no connection to the Temple Mount or Jerusalem even though this flies in the face of all recorded history.”

“In Islam, religion is used to give legitimacy to political issues.

The Saudis do this, as does Iran and Turkey.

Religion and politics in Islam are inseparable.

Islam without political power is nothing.”

Interview on Official PA TV – 9/18/20

with PA Mufti Muhammad Hussein

All the religious rulings that were issued by the nation's religious scholars obligated fighting against the thieving Jews and they don't disagree banning normalization with the Zionists, but some (i.e. the UAE and Bahrain) reinterpret these texts and welcome the normalization.

Answer: the texts clearly say that if an inch of the Muslim's lands (i.e. including all of Israel) is stolen, jihad becomes a personal commandment for everyone who is capable of it.

This is the Sharia law that the religious legal scholars have followed from the beginning, from the days of Muhammad. The fact that the Muslims cannot, in some of the Islamic lands, or in some of the Arab lands, restore their lands, doesn't mean that the ruling has changed. No, the religious ruling is still valid, and present. The minimum we demand from those (i.e. the UAE and Bahrain) who are trying to twist the texts, is that they read the texts correctly and not distort them. It is forbidden for them to make religious legal rulings, while changing the texts and twisting the texts,

according to the whims of this or that ruler
(i.e. UAE or Bahrain).

This is forbidden for them, and Allah will ask them about this.

Article commentator - Tricia Miller, who holds a PhD in the Hebrew Bible and currently works as a senior research analyst in the Christian department of the Committee for Accuracy in Middle East Reporting and Analysis (CAMERA).

Jerusalem Post | Oct 15, 2020

Hebrew Heritage Bible Newer Testament

Dr. Brad H. Young, translator

“Young’s translation undermines the antisemitic misuse of the Christian scriptures,” Miller says. “At a time of rising antisemitism, his translation is an especially significant achievement.”

Miller goes on to point out that many academics still wrongly use the term “Palestine” when situating Jesus in the first century. “But, of course, ancient Israel wasn’t called ‘Palestine’ in Jesus’ lifetime,” she says. “The Romans introduced the term when they defeated the Bar Khokhba uprising in the second century, about a hundred years after Jesus’ death.”

Roman colonialists coined the word “Palestine” in order to insult the native Jewish population with the memory of their ancient enemies, the Philistines.

“Long after Jesus, the Romans replaced the name ‘Judea’ — which obviously not only references the Jews but was also the name used during Jesus’ ministry,” Miller says.

Miller notes that the misapplication of later Roman terminology to Jesus’ time has political repercussions today.

“Anti-Israel activists are exploiting this late Roman designation to falsely claim that Jesus wasn’t a Jew but rather a ‘Palestinian,’ a designation which would have had no meaning to a first century Jew such as Jesus,” says Miller. “The Hebrew Heritage Bible is a profound rebuke to those now trying to deny Jesus’ spiritual and cultural origins in their efforts to undermine Christian support for the State of Israel.”
